Class History

On August 30, 1937, thirty-six pupils began their school years at Dow City. They were: Donna Mae Fischer, Don Griffin, Marie Christensen, Gordon Dryden, Lowell Mayne, Robert Doyle, Bobby Tilitt, James Houston, Duane Hansen, Mary Lou Sharp, Evelyn Igou, Clarence Smith, Lois Keairnes, Louise Johnson, Wilma McCoid, John Brink, Joan Weber, Jimmie Buss, Wendell Birkhofer, Anna Lou Anderson, Minnie Malone, Loren Siemer, Virginia Cook, Charles Vore, Virginia Phillips, Leola Mae Coburn, Ruth Mayer, Kenneth Jenkins, Irene Weber, Norman Brady, Betty Jane Brasel, Frances Riley, Shirley Pritchett, Norman Hansen, Earl Norris, and Wayne Greene.

We'll always know Don Griffin will remember the dog house, which was under Miss Metcalf's desk in second grade.

We'll always remember dressing as Indians and pilgrims in Miss Wiggin's room and parading around to show the other classes at Thanksgiving time.

Marie Christensen's untimely death took place in the third grade. It was caused by an attack of appendicitis.

We can all attribute our writing ability to Miss Turnland, because it was many push-pulls and ovals we had to make for her before we got them approved.

Loren, we wonder if you climb the steel pipes in high school like you used to do in the seventh grade!

The teachers we had in the grades are as follows: Miss Agnes, Miss McBride, Miss Metcalf, Miss Wiggins, Miss Riley, Miss Hanigan, Miss Turnland, Miss Egenes, and Miss Johnson.

We started high school in the fall of 1946. The following students began with us: Anna Lou Anderson, Norman Brady, Raymond Bramley, Betty Jane Brasel, John Brink, Jimmie Buss, Gordon Dryden, Mary Jane Ettleman, Gerald Feinhold, Don Griffin, Juanita Hamblen, Duane Hansen, James Houston, Lois Houston, Lois Keairnes, Jeanne Kelbl, Leola Kolln, Vernon Malone, Marvin Price, Frances Riley, Clarence Smith, Joe Smith, Joan Weber, Phyllis Weber, and Russell Winn.

We all dreaded initiation, but in a way were glad to see it come. Initiation was sort of a flop; it was held uptown in front of the show house, during a carnival. The Freshman class gave a hayride for the rest of the students. Mr. Ballantine was the hit of this party, especially when he stood on his head in the hayrack. This was the first year for girls' basketball for some time and we all remember the trouble we had in learning the fundamentals.

An operetta was given in our Sophomore year by Miss Carter. Many students took part in it and it was very successful.

What would the Earling people say if they saw the Dow City Seniors coming back for a picnic? Would they kick us out like they did the last time? We wonder?

Our Junior play, "Shiny Nose," was a great success under the splendid direction of Mrs. Walters.

Our banquet followed out the theme of a circus. The "Big-Top" was in the form of a hexagon, made by multi-color paper gayly arranged. The Sophomores as waiters were dressed as clowns and gypsies. They all had a little act to perform in carrying out the theme. Some twelve dozen brightly colored balloons were suspended from the center of the tent to add to the attraction. The tables were also in the form of a hexagon with clown nut cups, plastic animal place cards, and cakes decorated as drums, adding a lot of beauty to the tables. This banquet was greatly appreciated by the Seniors of '49. We hope!

We, as Juniors, had quite a time on our school picnic. We got off to an early start and went to Blue Lake to eat our dinner. While there we decided to go fishing. Boy! You should have seen the big ones we caught. Some weighed between ten and fifteen pounds, or somewhere around there. By the way, Butch, what happened to the fish anyway? We soon grew weary of fishing so packed ourselves down to Playland Park. My, what a day! We went on the Ghost Train, Caterpillar, Roller Coaster, Bumper Cars and what have you. We also had pictures taken and ate some more.

We can all attribute our master minds to the teachers we have had during our four years of high school. They are as follows: Mr. Frank, Mr. Meade, Mr. Ballantine, Miss Buman, Miss Thompson, Mr. Butterworth, Mr. Baker, Miss Carter, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Walters, Mr. Hughes, Mrs. Ploth, Mrs. Smith, and Miss Hugron.

We, as the Seniors of 1950, will never forget all the swell times we had in Dow City High School.

The year started off with a bang - the initiation of the Freshmen, which provided laughs for a day, and was followed by a party that night. Speaking of parties, everyone enjoyed the skating parties put on by the Juniors and Sophomores. There were falls and falls galore for both the teachers and kids. Those sore joints will always be remembered, as the after effects of a nice time.

We were all glad to hear that we were having a school annual this year. Through the various committees and the co-operation of the high school members and teachers, we accomplished our goal. Almost everyone contributed snapshots; Mr. Butterworth and Mrs. Walters helped out a great deal by using their cameras in school to get some good pictures.

We had our graduation pictures taken January 17th at the Smith Studios in Denison. Some of the group went to Charter Oak and Dunlap afterwards and pestered high school classes and teachers there.

Hoarseness and sore throats were the results of the County Tournament held in the Denison gym. Both teams played wonderfully all the way through and brought home two beautiful trophies as a result of their skill. Coach Hughes' hair stood straight up for days afterwards because of the "scares" he acquired through the seige.

A nice dinner given by the Advanced Home Economics girls was enjoyed by the faculty and board members February 8th. Through the helpful guidance of Miss Thompson, it was a success.

We Seniors got an early start for our Sneak Day, which we will always remember, I'm sure. There were so many things to see that the day wasn't long enough to get to them all, but we did hit all the high spots anyhow. There were fifteen pretty tired people the next day, and we do mean tired!

Our annual class day was held at the close of school. Coach Hughes made athletic awards to the basketball girls and boys, and the class will and prophecy were read. Entertainment was furnished by everyone or anyone who could sing, play or do something to amuse the rest of us. Picnics were enjoyed by the other three classes.

We noticed that there were a few sad faces among the audience at Commencement. We wonder if it was because of their overjoyment of getting rid of us or the sorrow of seeing us leave dear old Dow City High. Seriously though, these exercises went off wonderfully, as a climax of our last year of high school.

Ten of the original thirty-six students who started with us are now graduating. They are: Don Griffin, Gorden Dryden, Clarence Smith, Lois Keairnes, Joan Weber, Jimmie Buss, Anna Lou Andersen, Loren Siemer, Norman Brady and Betty Jane Brasel.

IN MEMORIAM

Died November 2, 1948

Class Will of 1950

The Senior Class of 1950 wills the faculty the prison in which they have just spent thirteen years. To the Juniors, they reluctantly give up their honorable seats in the assembly, and to all the high school students their good study habits and early hours.

Juanita Hamblen wills her typing ability to LaVerne Poitevin. To her younger sister, she leaves the name "Dale" to use in choosing her boy friends, and to Glenda Lee Smith, all the soldier boys.

Anna Lou Anderson wills her gum-cracking to Connie Ahart. To her younger sisters, she leaves her downstairs locker with all the dirty socks and towels left in it. To Marilyn Smith, she leaves her ability to sing.

Jimmy Buss wills his wolf call and curly hair to Glen Beam. To Marilyn Smith, he leaves his back seat in the assembly. He leaves his seat by Connie Ahart in the school bus going to basketball games to Carl Beymer, if Kay Lou Ahart doesn't mind, Don Griffin wills his height of four feet and his musical ability to James Ettleman. To Bill Houston, he leaves his perfect attendance throughout the year.

Betty Jane Brasel wills her small tennis shoes (12 in size), to Clara Mae Mathys; to Alice McDonald and Mary Ellen Putman, her good athletic ability, and to Betty Andersen, she wills her progressiveness.

Gordon Dryden, being of sound health and little mind, leaves to Carl Beymer, his blond curly hair and his knowledge of how to become a Romeo.

Lois Keairnes wills her dimples to Glen Beam, and to Clara Mae Mathys, her scrap and fight in basketball. To Fern Cue, she leaves her seat in the assembly so she won't have so far to walk to the teacher's desk.

Loren Siemer wills to Bill Baber, Glenda Lee Smith, if Patsy Riley will give him up. He also wills his secret of being Miss Thompson's pet to Bill Baber.

Pat McCoid wills her man-catching technique to Clara Mae Mathys. To Fern Cue, she leaves all those green Chevrolets.

Norman Brady wills his bashfulness and clever ways with girls to Norman Weed. To Emmett Ahart, he leaves his athletic ability.

Joan Weber wills her quietness and love of books to Marilyn Smith. To Connie Ahart, she leaves her listening in on telephone conversations.

Clarence Smith wills to Duane Hard, his interest in the "dark room" so that he may develop a new technique. He leaves all his old Algebra papers to LaVerne Poitevin, and to Bill Baber, his back brace and his black eyes from boxing.

Leola Kolln wills her skating ability to LaVonna Clothier. To Betty Anderson, she leaves the late hours caused by nights at the Columbia Hall.

Russell Winn wills Norman Weed all his flat tires and car wrecks, and his bright remarks in Algebra class to Emmett Ahart.

Mary Jane Ettleman wills to Connie Ahart her graceful figure. To Bill Baber, she leaves her ability to get along with teachers, and her seat in the assembly to anyone who wants the worthless, broken down thing.

The Snooper-Scope

One fine summer day as I was strolling through the forests of Minnesota, I decided to go up on the ridge and take a peek at Paul Bunyan's enormous new invention, the Snooper-Scope, that everyone for miles around was raving about. The reason for such excitement was that it could foretell the future of anyone you wanted it to merely by adjusting a meter to the desired point.

I went through a small room and into the large observation room where this huge scope was mounted. I read the directions on the bulletin board for regulating it and then I swung it toward Iowa. It had been some time since I had left that state and wouldn't it be interesting to look in on the future of the Senior Class of 1950.

By setting the sound detector, the huge creation could even pick up the sound of the objects in focus!

I turned on the switch and heard the cackling of chickens almost instantly. And as I looked into the long tube, what do you think I saw? It was Pat McCoid with a pail of laying mash in the midst of a flock of wingless chickens. She and Don were happily married and raising large flocks of wingless chickens on their large farm.

A small guage at my right told me that Mary Jane and Leola were also residing in Iowa. If I remembered right, the most logical place they could be found was in the towns of Defiance or Dunlap. Sure enough, when I guided the scope in those directions the first person I saw was Mary Jane. She was living in a large white house in Dunlap while her husband, Perry, who was a Commanding Officer in the U. S. Army, was keeping his boys in step.

Leola, as the scope told me, was living in Defiance with her husband, Bob. There aren't very many dances in that small town, so I wondered if Leola had given up her favorite recreation.

It was a beautiful time of the year and I wanted to see what Florida looked like, so I aimed toward the sunshine state. The sound track jumped with sound waves which in an instant, I realized were coming from the Hialeah Race Track, where Loren was racing his million dollar race horses. Those horses hadn't lost a race for so long that they were getting tired of the same routine. The scope also showed that Glenda Lee was brightening the dark days for "Zip."

Circus music from a distance could be heard amidst the racing fans' yells. As I turned in that direction, I could see a large platform on which were seated entertainers of all kinds, but the center of attraction was the fat woman, who topped the scales at some 450 pounds. A sign on the side read, "Joan Weber, Famous Strong Woman." She must have forgotten her diets for once, and started enjoying the good things of life.

I never saw one state have so much excitement at the same time, and all caused by these innocent Dow City people. Well--people do get around, and I do mean around, for the Snooper had just swung toward a Miami suburb and who do you think I found there? None other than Lois Keairnes. How can any one person be so lucky as she? With all this sunshine, she also had Aldo, who was training racing hounds, to go with it. Coach Hughes always predicted this outcome, but I often wondered if it would come true.

New York always seemed like a pretty lively place to me so I decided to peer in on it and see if it lived up to its name. I passed all the skyscrapers and finally met up with a football game. Football never appealed to me much, but since it was the famous Notre Dame team, I felt I should watch a little while. The scoreboard read Notre Dame 60--Visitors 0, and who should be the star of this game but our own Russell Winn. He had already made six touchdowns at this time and I wondered who would win this game. They say overexcitement isn't good for a weak heart, so I moved on.

Baseball seemed as good as anything else to watch, so I tried my hand at hunting a good game. I finally ran across a game between the Chicago Cubs and the New York Yankees, which looked like a pretty good contest. That Cub catcher looked mighty familiar. I wondered where I had seen that butch haircut before. Oh yes, it was Clarence Smith and he just couldn't seem to get his eyes away from the box seats where his wife, Anna Lou, was seated. She was a famous Powers model. Since Clarence had the game so well in hand I decided I'd like to see some more of the city.

As I was looking in on the sports scenes, basketball popped into my mind. I was curious to see what the Snooper-Scope would reveal to me about this great game, and I soon found out as I was viewing a practice session of the popular Tri-City Blackhawks, who were warming up for a big game. Don Griffin, one of the former loyal Dow City fans in high school, was the main cog in the success of this team, for he had averaged 50 points a game in all contests he participated in with the Hawks. He was widely known as "The All-American Center" in this sport.

Not so far from the ball park on a hill stood a big white mansion. After some looking around, the owner proved to be Jimmy Buss, who liked his high school government work so much that he was now a U. S. Senator living there with his dear wife, Connie.

New York must be quite a place if it could draw so many 1950 Seniors.

Why, I even found Betty Jane there. In case you're wondering what she was doing, I'll tell you. At the city's largest hospital, she was head nurse and also aiding her husband Jackie, a brain surgeon, in his delicate operations.

Let's see-what other state did I want to see? Oh yes, Texas, where men are men. And I soon found this to be true. I turned the eye catcher to a wide open plain and saw a daring cowboy doing a dangerous trick on a beautiful white horse. Maybe it was Gene Autry or Roy Rogers, but no, it was Norman Brady who was doing a bold sequence for his newest western movie. I learned that he and his horse, Lakebiscuit, were to be more famous than either Autry or Rogers.

You know, life was much more interesting when you could see into the future of all your friends, no matter where they lived. Now just take a foreign country for instance, say Arabia; well, I saw Gordon in his palace of gold with his harem of twenty-five beautiful girls. Was this the calm business-minded young man I remembered? No, surely there must be some mistake, for this man was "King Dryden" the lady killer.

And way over in London, England, I saw Juanita. From what the scope revealed, she was attending Oxford until her handsome husband, Dale, returned from the war.

You've probably heard the expression: "This surely is a small world." Well, someday when you aren't doing anything worthwhile, just go up and look at the world through Paul Bunyan's Snooper-Scope and you'll find it makes the world seem even smaller.

These are the futures of the 1950 Seniors as I saw them through the giant eye-opener, and if it tells no lies, that class should have some great futures.

To Ye Juniors

Take notice! ye Juniors and listen to us.
Mind your manners and make ne'er a fuss
Be kind to your upperclassmen so gay
For soon fifteen Seniors will be on their way.

Where we are going and what we will do
Is more of a question to us, than to you,
But we will succeed in whatever we try
For we know success will come by and by.

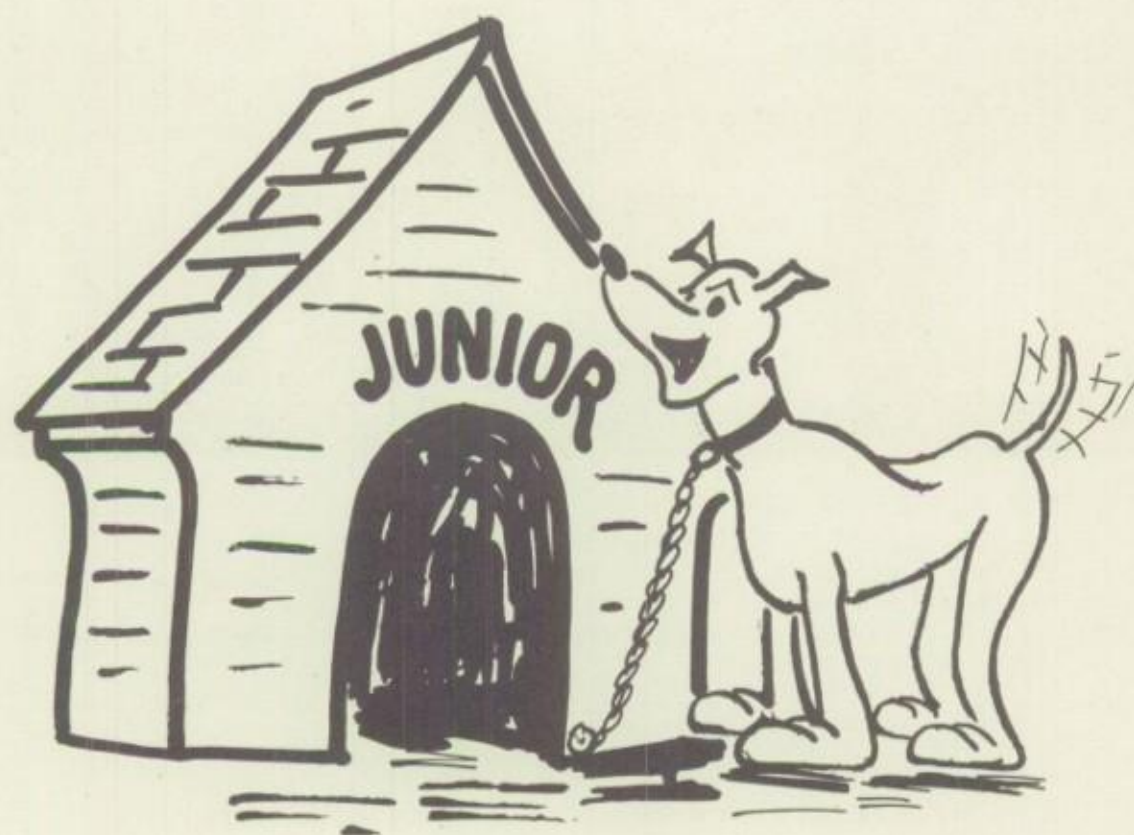

We'll cherish our school days when we're far away,
And remember the friends that we gained everyday
By a favor performed or a nice friendly smile
Which taught us it paid ne'er to beguile.

One of these faraway days, we'll return
To see the old school. Our hearts will yearn
With pleasure and glee as we stroll up the hall
Of the Dow City school when comes next fall.

When autumn scatters its leaves around
And children play on the old school ground
Your heart will leap, your eyes will race
In vain to glimpse a Senior's face.

November 8th, the Juniors sponsored an all high school skating party, which was held at the Stardom Skating Rink, Denison, Iowa

Our class has been very active in extra-curricular activities this year. In basketball, Marilyn and Connie played regularly on the girls' squad; Bill, Norman, Duane, Carl, and Vincent were on the boys' squad. Bill, Norman, and Duane were also on the baseball team.

In music, our girls were outstanding. All five were in Glee Club, and three, Connie, Betty, and LaVonna were in a sextet. The boys have also done well. Norman, Carl, Vincent, and Glen were members of the quartet; and these four, including Duane, were in Glee Club.

The Junior Class entertained the Senior Class and Faculty at the annual banquet with the theme, "Plantation Party of the Old South."

The Sophomore class started out the year with nineteen pupils, including two newcomers, Glen Higgins and Marty Furne. About the middle of the year, we had another boy, Charles Frazier, for a week.

The majority of the girls and boys went out for Glee Club. Five of the girls were in the two sextets. Four girls made the first twelve in basketball. Another took over when one of the team became ill. The Sophomore boys had one representative on the boys' first ten. The high point of girls' basketball was when we won the county tournament, beating Charter Oak.

The Sophomores gave the high school a skating party in March. The World History Class had a project for each semester. They were many and varied, and much talked over. The geometry class had drawings one semester and other projects the next. In English, we made movies of fairy tales and showed them to the lower grades. We also illustrated stories and plays. The Sophomores have been active in school duties and at basketball games. They have all given their support to the teams.

Although we Freshmen are young and haven't made much history, we think we have had a grand year.

Twenty-five of us entered high school last fall. We were excited and anxious to see what initiation would bring forth. It was a fun-loving day which was topped off with a party given by the Seniors in the evening.

We elected Charles Beerman as Treasurer the first of the year. But as he left in a few months, we elected Joseph Lahr to take his place.

Donna Lahr started new at the beginning of the second semester. That raised our number to twenty-five again.

From our class, Glenda Smith and Pat Riley were elected cheerleaders. Glenda and Pat were also selected for the small music groups.

Junior Class Play

"Oh Kay!"

By Adam Applebud

"Oh Kay!" was a mystery-comedy in three acts. Arthur Whitman was considered too young to protect the women folk and Gramp was considered too old. The real blow to their ego came when a girl was sent by the Detective Bureau to protect them from the "Black Terror."
